NEW YORK, November 10, 1894.

WHOLE No. 1189

Frederick A. Stokes Company's NEW BOOKS.

IN THE MIDST OF ALARMS.

By ROBERT BARR, editor of "The Idler."

The first of an important new series of copyrighted novels, of convenient size, bound in colored buckram and tastefully stamped with silver.

Mr Barr is admitted to be one of the most popular writers of short stories in the world, but this is his first novel. The leading character of the story is a New York newspaper correspondent, and the scene is the frontier of Canada at the time of the Fenian invasion. The situations are marked by Mr Barr's characteristic humor, but are the basis of a very pretty love-story.

In speaking of Mr. Barr recently, A. Conan Doyle described him as "One of the best six short story writers in the world."

Tall 16mo, colored buckram,

(Other volumes in preparation.)

COLONIAL BOOKS FOR CHILDREN.

Three charming books for children. The publishers believe that these books surpass any works of a similar nature ever issued, in the beauty and originality of the designs.

Children of Colonial Days.

With twelve fac-similes of water-color sketches by E. PERCY MORAN. In these sketches Mr. Moran has produced twelve beautiful pictures of colonial life. The principal characters in these are children, but there are also adults depicted, and all in the picturesque costumes of that period.

Accompanying each fac-simile is an appropriate story or sketch by Miss ELIZABETH S. TUCKER, printed in inks of different colors, and enclosed in a beautiful decorative border.

Large 4to, boards, with covers in colors, $2.50.

Rhymes and Stories of Olden Times.

Tales and Verses of Long Ago.

These books are made up of selections from "Children of Colonial Days," each containing just half the illustrations and text in the larger volume.

Large 4to, boards, with covers in colors, each $1.50.

A TREASURY OF STORIES, JINGLES, AND RHYMES.

A remarkably interesting volume, containing 140 half-tone engravings of water-color sketches of children, by MAUD HUMPHREY.

These include reproductions of all the water-color sketches that have made Miss Humphrey famous as a delineator of child-life, such as her delightful Mother Goose, Fairy, Pet, Babes of the Nations, and Sweetheart pictures.

With stories and verses by well-known authors, in addition to the Mother Goose rhymes and 12 standard fairy tales.

1 volume, 4to, boards, with covers in colors, cloth back, $1.50; full red cloth, $1.75.

COMIC MILITARY ALPHABET.

By DEWITT C. FALLS. With 26 pictures in colors, each illustrating a letter of the alphabet, and each showing some member of the different branches of service in the army, the navy, the marines, and the various famous regiments in the National Guard.

Each of these 26 colored plates is accompanied by a separate leaf or sub-title containing two lines of humorous verse, or doggerel, and with a title-page in color.

12mo, bound in red, white, and blue cloths, with lettering on the side in red or blue, $1.25.

A YEAR OF PAPER DOLLS.

By Miss ELIZABETH S. TUCKER.

The most beautiful and unique novelty for children ever published.

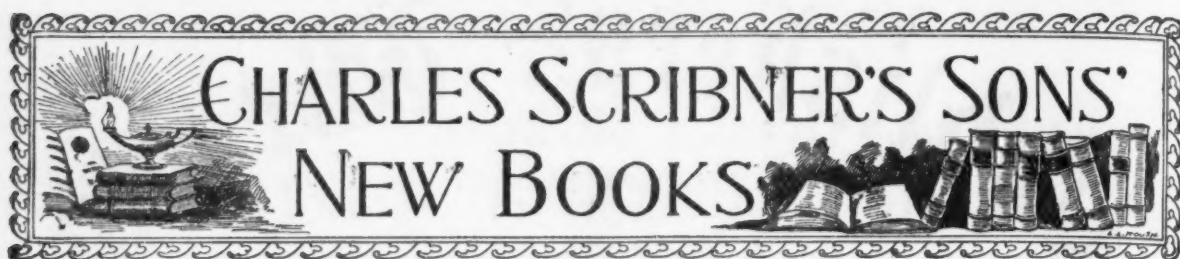

With twelve designs of children in dresses appropriate to the different months of the year, front and back, in many colors, and so made that they can be cut out as paper dolls.

One entirely new feature is that with these dolls comes a sheet of calendar dates. The dates of each month can be cut out and pasted on the doll representing that month, the twelve figures making a calendar that will last through the year.

With the designs as loose sheets, in a box with bright cover in colors, 75 cents.

SOLD BY ALL BOOKSELLERS, OR SENT POSTPAID.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY, 27 and 29 West 23d St., New York.

The Life of Charles Loring Brace.

Chiefly Told in His Own Letters. With portraits. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

The great work accomplished by Mr. Brace, particularly in the Newsboys' Lodging Houses which he founded, gives to his biography a peculiar interest. The volume reveals the story of his mental and spiritual as well as his external experience—his private life and intimate relationships and his views on moral and political questions.

Three Score and Ten Years.

Recollections by W. J. LINTON. With portrait. 8vo, $2.00.

These recollections cover an unusually long period of an unusually varied life (1820-1890), and reveal a rich fund of interesting reminiscences of Horne, Heywood, O'Connor, Tennyson, the Howitts, Mazzini, George Sand, Carlyle, and other eminent men, as well as of the events with which their names are associated, and in which the author was a participant.

The Life and Times of A. B. Durand.

By JOHN DURAND. Illustrated with photogravures. Two editions. On hand-made paper, 4to, limited to 100 copies, $17.50, net; square 8vo, limited to 500 copies, $6.00, net.

Mr. Durand's life is an epitome of modern American art history, and this volume, by his son, narrates not only the artist's life, but, incidentally, the development of American painting during the past half century. It is full of anecdotes and reminiscences, and handsomely illustrated—mainly with reproductions of Mr. Durand's paintings.

The Odes of Horace.

Translated by William E. Gladstone. 8vo, $1.50.

The difficulty of turning the Latin of Horace into corresponding terse, compact, epigrammatic, and at the same time poetical English has been mastered by Mr. Gladstone in a manner that will recommend his volume to all lovers of the classics as an example of remarkably sympathetic and vigorous translation.

The Recollections of Geoffrey Hamlyn.

By HENRY KINGSLEY. 2 vols., 12mo, $2.00.

The third issue in the attractive American edition of Mr. Kingsley's novels, in which "Ravenshoe" and "Austin Elliot" have already appeared.

"A powerful and extraordinary novel of Australian life."—Chicago Times.

The Bird's Calendar.

By H. E. PARKHURST. With 24 illustrations. 12mo, $1.50, net.

Mr. Parkhurst's book describes with sympathy and enthusiasm the various birds as they appear throughout the year in Central Park, the number and variety of which will surprise the general reader, for with this guide he will be able to identify every bird of importance.

The Liberation of Italy.

1815-1870. By the Countess EVELYN MARTINENGO CESARESCO. With portraits. Crown 8vo, $1.75.

A new volume in the "Events of Our Own Time" Series.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "Maelcho," a new historical romance by the Hon. Emily Lawless. Like "Grania," this story relates to Ireland, but it is Ireland in the stirring days of the sixteenth century, and the book is largely a tale of war and adventure. They announce a superb edition de luxe of "The Three Musketeers," with the original illustrations by Maurice Leloir; "A Life of Dean Buckland," by his daughter; and "The Golden Fairy Book," a selection of the choicest Continental fairy stories, which includes classics of French, German, Russian, Servian, and Italian origin, and one story which comes from South Africa, all delightfully illustrated.

R. H. RUSSELL & SON (The DeWitt Publishing House) have nearly ready a collection of the drawings of Charles Dana Gibson, that have from time to time appeared in Life. Besides the plain edition there will be an edition de luxe, limited to 100 copies, printed on special wood-cut paper, each copy numbered and signed by the artist. A signed artist-proof, on Japan paper, of a drawing by Mr. Gibson, will be enclosed with each copy of this edition. Mr. Gibson is a nephew of Mr. William Hamilton Gibson, and is a Massachusetts man who has spent the greater part of his youth in New York City.

F. A. STOKES CO. announce the first volume in a new series of copyrighted novels which they propose to issue. It is by Robert Barr, editor of The Idler, and author of many bright short stories, is attractively entitled "In the Midst of Alarms," and deals with the Fenian invasion of Canada, one of the chief actors being a New York newspaper correspondent. It will be issued in convenient narrow pocket form, bound in colored buckram. Other volumes in the same series are in preparation. The holiday books for children issued by this house are as charming as ever. They comprise three beautiful volumes with colored designs by E. Percy Moran, picturing little folk of pre-revolutionary times, and entitled "Children of Colonial Days," "Rhymes and Stories of Olden Times," and "Tales and Verses of Long Ago;" "A Treasury of Stories, Jingles, and Rhymes," with half-tone reproductions of Maud Humphrey's famous sketches of child-life; a "Comic Military Alphabet," by DeWitt C. Falls, giving colored pictures of the various branches of service in the army, navy, marines and national guard; and "A Year of Paper Dolls," twelve designs of children, by Miss E. S. Tucker, that may be cut out as paper dolls.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will publish immediately a little volume containing two stories by Arthur Machen, author of "The Chronicle of Clemendy" and translator of "The Heptameron." The first, which is described as being a genuine literary horror, is entitled "The Great God Pan." They have also in hand (in connection with John Lane of London) Francis Adams' "A Child of the Age." In a letter which Adams wrote in March, 1892, he says: "It was my modest little scheme to draw types of all the social life of the day. 'A Child of the Age' is the first of a series of novels and tales. There are three novels to do yet, and about eight short tales." The first draft of this story was written in 1880, in Paris, where he went immediately after leaving Shrewsbury—the Glastonbury of the story. It was published under the title "Leicester, an Autobiography," in 1884, while he was in Australia. Before his death he revised it and recast it.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Ackerman, A. W. The price of peace: a story of the times of Ahab, King of Israel. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1894. c. 2-390 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3486]

Dealing with the times of the weak-minded King Ahab and his idolatrous wife, Jezebel, this book sets before the reader, in the attractive form of a tale, something of the domestic as well as the military life of those troublous times. Perhaps its most valuable feature is the carefully drawn and life-like portrait of a Bible character too little known; namely, Micaiah, the prophet who was courageous enough to tell the king, in the presence of his army and in contradiction of the flatteries of hundreds of false prophets, that his forces would be scattered and he himself slain in the coming battle with the Syrians.

Addison, Jos. Selected essays; with an introd., by C. T. Winchester. [New issue.] N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1894. c. '86. 3+175 p. por. D. cl., 75 c. [3487]

First published by Rand, Avery & Co. in 1886.

Rodney Barnes, a Boston boy's mother, becoming anxious on account of her son's failing health, consults a doctor, who astonishes both mother and son by prescribing a vacation in Maine during the maple-sugar season. Following Dr. Freeman's advice, Rodney pays a visit to his uncle. Shortly after his arrival at Uncle James' a heavy snow-storm preventing his carrying out his plans, Rodney has to find other ways of amusing himself; hence the story gives a series of clever short stories told in a New England farmhouse.

A profusely illustrated, gilt-edge volume, uniform with the other volumes of this series. Chapters on: The gateway into Bohemia; The castles of Burgstein; Ralsko, and Bösig; Friedland, Gatlantz, and Turnau; Jicin and its surroundings; Kuttenberg and its associations; Prague; Carlstein and Pilsen; From Tabor to Hohenfurth; Prachatic and birthplace of Hus; Fashionable Bohemia—Marienbad, Eger, and Carlsbad; Saaz and the Elbe.

Bible. New Testament. The master's guide for his disciples: being a manual of all the recorded sayings of Jesus; arr. for easy consultation and systematic reading, with a preface by Eugene Stock. N. Y., T: Whitaker, 1894. 11+268 p. nar. S. cl., $1. [3493]

The recorded sayings of Christ are grouped together without comment under the following headings: The devout life; The practical life; The intellectual life.

Bikélas, Demetrios. Tales from the Ægean; tr., by Leonard Eckstein Opdycke; with an introd., by H: Alonzo Huntington. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1894. c. 4-258 p. S. cl., $1. [3494]

Eight little stories, originally written in modern Greek and now translated into English, make up this attractive little volume. M. Bikélas, perhaps, the most popular living author in his own land; his historic tale, "Loukis Laras," made so great a sensation when published at Athens about fifteen years ago that it was translated into nearly every language of Europe.

Of these tales some are sad, some imbued with a gentle humor—cheerful rather than merry—and all are pure and refined in sentiment. But their especial value lies in the realistic pictures they paint of Greek life in our own times—its social customs, dress, courtship, and marriage.

Bradford, Rev. Amory H. The Sistine Madonna: a Christmas meditation. [New ed.] N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1894. c. '93. 2-41 p. il. D. cl., 50 c., pap., 35 c. [3495]

Buckham, H: B., Huntington, Rev. F. D., and Fitch, Joshua G. The teacher's mentor. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1894. 8+152+45+80+121 p. D. (Standard teacher's lib., no. 9.) pap., 50 c. [3496]

Contains: Buckingham's "First steps in teaching," Huntington's "Unconscious tuition," Fitch's "Art of questioning" and "Art of securing attention."

Century cyclopædia of names: a pronouncing and etymological dictionary of names in geography, biography, mythology, history, ethnology, art, archæology, fiction, etc.; ed. by B: E. Smith. N. Y., The Century Co., [1894.] c. 6+1085 p. F. subs., cl., $10; hf. Am., $12.50; hf. rus., $13; shp., $15. [3497]

This "Cyclopædia of names" is an outgrowth of "The Century dictionary." It was part of the plan of that work to include in its final volume a somewhat fuller appendix of names of persons and places than had before been given in general dictionaries; but as the size of the book increased, it became obvious that this could not be done in the available space, and it was decided to place the appendix in a separate volume. The result, with many modifications of the original scheme, is the present work. It is entirely independent in subject and use, yet serves as a supplement to the dictionary by extending the name-list into regions which the dictionary could not occupy, and by enlarging its encyclopedic field. The entries comprise not only names in biography and geography, but also names of races and tribes, mythological and legendary persons and places, characters and objects in fiction, stars and constellations, notable buildings and monuments, works of art, institutions, historical events, sects, parties, books, plays, operas, celebrated war-ships, yachts, horses, etc. The only condition of insertion has been that the name should be one about which information would be likely to be sought. While primarily a dictionary, the work is secondarily an encyclopædia in its somewhat fuller treatment of several thousands of the more important articles. Uniform in size and binding with the "Century dictionary."

Chester, A. S. M. Up the chimney to Ninny Land: a story for children. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1894. 5-86 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1. [3498]

The story of two little boys who flew up the chimney with a queer little man, and found themselves in fairyland, where they saw wonderful things.

Cleveland, Helen M. The beginner's readers, nos. 1-3. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, [1894.] c. '88-'94. ea. 62 p. il. D. pap., ea. 10 c. [3499]

Collar, W: C., and Daniell, M. Grant. The first Latin book. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1894. c. 7+286 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.10. [3500]

This is not a revision of "The beginner's Latin book," nor is it intended to supersede that work. It has been written for the purpose of offering to schools that cannot afford the amount of time and practice required to complete "The beginner's Latin book," a work not less thorough, but easier, and demanding not more than two-thirds as much time. The reduction has been made almost wholly by shortening the exercises for translation, particularly those to be turned into Latin.

Crocker, B. M. Mr. Jervis. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1895 [1894.] c. 2+397 p. D. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 163.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [3501]

Two merchants' wives in East India, who have made envied social positions for themselves, decide almost simultaneously to bring out two young misses and marry them off in a way to cast new lustre on their social talent. The girls are strongly contrasted, one is the young and pretty, repressed English girl, of decided mental ability; the other, the loud, sickly, man-aping species. Mr. Jervis succumbs to one. The story is told cleverly.

Da Costa, J: Chalmers, M.D. A manual of modern surgery, general and operative. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 1894. il. 12°, (Saunders' new aid series.) cl., net, $2.50. [3502]

Darr, Mrs. Francis J. A. Through troubled waters: a story founded on fact. N. Y., Town Topics Pub. Co., 1895 [1894.] c. 2-322 p. D. pap., 50 c. [3503]

A story of political and social life in London; it is based largely upon the divorce proceedings in which Sir Charles Dilke figured, and aims to show that an unprincipled woman, if young and pretty, finds no difficulty in influencing a jury and ruining a public man.

Deland, Mrs. Margaret. Philip and his wife. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1894. c. 3+438 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3504]

Shall incompatibility of temper, an absence of mutual sympathy on almost every subject, and other minor causes, of which the law takes no cognizance, be sufficient reasons for a married couple separating? Such is the question which Mrs. Deland considers, but fails to solve in a deeply interesting story of old Chester. Pa. Philip is high principled, ascetic, severe—an artist, but poor; his wife is rich, indolent, and selfish, of a warm, sensuous nature and with a low estimate of right and wrong. They have a dear little girl, "Mollie." The story of their unsympathetic, unhappy life, in which this child plays a strong part, is powerfully portrayed. There is a charming love-story besides, and a number of most graphic and amusing character sketches. Has been the leading attraction of the Atlantic for the year just closing.

Dessar, Leonard A., M.D. Home treatment for catarrh and colds: a handy guide for the prevention, care, and treatment of catarrhal troubles, cold in the head, sore throat, hay fever, hoarseness, ear affections, etc.; adapted for use in the household. N. Y., Home Series Pub. Co., 114 Fifth Ave., [1894.] c. '93. 6+118 p. il. D. cl., $1. [3505]

The aim of this little work is to supply the general public, as well as vocalists, public speakers, etc., with such information regarding diseases of the nose, throat, and ear, as to enable them to take the proper hygienic measures for their prevention, and to suggest certain simple methods of treatment adopted for use in the household. The author, who is a well-known New York specialist in this class of diseases, has made no effort to supplant the physician in the more serious form of catarrh, but has aimed to afford the reader an intelligent idea of the more trivial affections of the nose, throat, and ear, and their best mode of treatment.

Emerson, Willis G: Gray Rocks: a tale of the middle-west; il. by W. R. Goodall. Chic., Laird & Lee, [1894.] c. 5-255 p. il. D. pap., 50 c. [3512]

The hero is a young literary New Yorker employed on the Banner, who is sent west to obtain the true story of several gold-mines "boomed" in the east. "Gray Rocks" is a gold-mine of Idaho, and here the chief incidents take place.

Emerton, Ephraim. Mediaeval Europe, (814-1300.) Bost., Ginn & Co., 1894. c. 25+607 p. D. cl., $1.65. [3513]

Owes its origin to repeated requests that the author would go on with the history of continental Europe at the point where he left it in "An Introduction to the study of the Middle Ages." It has for its subject the period extending from the death of Charlemagne to about the middle of the thirteenth century. A bibliographical introduction gives a four-page list of books on the period.

Fenn, G: Manville. First in the field: a story of New South Wales; il. by W. Rainey. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1894.] c. 3-417 p. D. cl., $1.50. [3514]

Dominic Braydon was the son of an English doctor, who had immigrated to Australia on account of his health, leaving Dominic in Kent, at school; just as the latter was becoming very much dissatisfied, his father sends for him. Misadventures, including a perilous journey, and the incident which led his brother-in-law to refer to him as "First in the field," are faithfully described in a story of constant action.

Flam, J. Byrd, (pseud.) Byrd Flam in town.

- Chic., J: Bearhope Co., Masonic Temple, 1894. c. 139 p. il. D. (Shadows lib., v. 1, no. 1.) pap., 25 c. [3515]
Sketches written for the Chicago Herald in the form of letters from J. Byrd Flam, of True's Mills, Indiana; they narrate his amusing journey to Chicago, the artless manner in which the bunko man did not entrap him; his adventures at the races, at the "chutes," in society, in battle and in politics while in Chicago.
- Follett, Helen. About girls: spicy sketches revealing the choicest feminine fads and fancies. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1894. c. 3-238 p. il. D. pap., 25 c. [3516]
A series of racy character sketches on: The girl who is in love; The spring girl; The summer girl; The swimming-school girl; The winter girl; The story-telling girl; The business girl; etc., etc.
- Foster, Mary J. Chisholm. The kindergarten of the church. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1894. c. 5-227 p. D. cl., $1. [3517]
A suggestive work for Sunday-school workers on the best methods for developing and unfolding the mind of the child.
- *Ganthony, Rob. Ventriloquism self-taught: a guide to the art of voice-throwing and vocal mimicry. N. Y., Dick & Fitzgerald, 1894. 96 p. 16°, pap., 25 c. [3518]
- Goethe, J: Wolfgang v. Goethe's Faust from the German, by J: Anster; with an introd. by Burdett Mason; il. by Frank M. Gregory. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1894. c. 3-250 p. O. cl., $3.50. Special limited ed., leath., net, $6. [3519]
- Goldsmith, Oliver. Oliver Goldsmith: a selection from his works; with an introd. by E. E. Hale. [New issue.] Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1894. c. '86. 22+287 p. por. D. cl., $1. [3520]
First published in 1886 by Rand, Avery & Co.
- Gould, Nat, ["Verax," pseud.] Banker and broker. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1894.] 288 p. D. cl., $1.50; pap., 50 c. [3521]
The two leading characters are business men of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia; they both have a passion for horses, the result being in the banker's case, that he robs the bank of which he is manager, and is sent to prison. Horses and horse-racing play a large part in the story.
- Gould, Nat, ["Verax," pseud.] Harry Dale's Jockey, Wild Rose: her life and adventures. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1894.] 5+304 p. D. cl., $1.50; pap., 50 c. [3522]
The scene is in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. "Wild Rose" is a beautiful young girl, who is a wonderful rider; in a jockey's dress she rides an almost unmanageable horse in a steeplechase. There are many scenes from sporting life, a murder, some detective work, and a love-affair.
- Gould, Nat, ["Verax," pseud.] Jockey Jack. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1894.] 3-320 p. D. cl., $1.50; pap., 50 c. [3523]
A story of racing life in Australia, dealing with episodes of "training" and plots to defeat a probable cup winner. Jockey Jack is a homeless lad who enters the employ of a well-known trainer. The revelation of his parentage and connections furnishes the chief element in the rather sensational plot.
- Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. Miss Uraca. Bost., A. I. Bradley & Co., [1894.] 4-253 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3524]
Uraca Underwood was the youngest of four sisters, who were, with the exception of herself, all beauties; on account of this inferiority in personal appearance she is accorded the place of "ugly duckling." Ratcliffe Fontaine, an heir to a fortune, and likewise below the accepted standard in good looks, feeling it his imperative duty to marry, and revolting against being accepted for his fortune, meets Uraca while masquerading as a tutor; besides the interest felt in the unconventional courtship which follows, there is an additional one in the transforming process of an apparently plain girl into the beauty of the family.
- Hall, Rev. T: C. The power of an endless life. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1894. c. 4-190 p. D. cl., $1. [3525]
Sermons in which the Christian life is viewed in its various phases. The writer is pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Chicago.
- Harris, Frank. Elder Conklin, and other stories. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1894. c. 2+277 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3526]
Stories of the present, with their scene in the far west. "Elder Conklin" is a fine character-study and an odd combination of heroic qualities and petty meannesses. His daughter is beautiful and ignorant and vain. She throws herself at a young schoolmaster from Boston, boarding in her father's house, and when she realizes his contempt, elopes with a "flashy" elderly lawyer. The other stories are: The sheriff and his partner; A modern idyll; Satin Crow; The best man in Garotte; and Gulmore the Boss. The author is late editor of the Fortnightly Review.
- Hayden, W: B. William B. Hayden, for forty two years a minister of the New-Jerusalem Church: selected essays and discourses, with memorials of his life and services. Bost., Massachusetts New-Church Union, 1894. 3-319 p. por. O. cl., $1.25. [3527]
"This memorial volume, containing eight sermons or lectures and four essays composed and delivered by the Rev. W: B. Hayden, prefaced by notices and addresses, relating to his character and work, written before and after his death, is presented to the attention of those who knew and loved Mr. Hayden, and to all who can appreciate clear and forcible expositions of the teachings and philosophy of the New Church."—Editorial Note.
- Hinrichs, Gustavus Detlef, M.D. Elements of atom-mechanics. V. 1, The true atomic weights of the chemical elements and the unity of matter. N. Y., B. Westermann & Co., 1894. c. 13+255 p. por. plates, D. cl., $3. [3528]
"The highest problem in the physical sciences is the determination of the constitution of matter. The sciences of chemistry, physics, and crystallography are equally interested and equally required in the solution of the problem of atom-mechanics. Before we can proceed to the solution of any problem in mechanics we must know the distribution of the masses as to weight and place. Accordingly, we begin atom-mechanics by the determination of the weight and the form of the atoms. The solution of the first of these problems is given in the present volume."—Preface.
- Hope, Anthony, [pseud.] for Anthony Hope Hawkins.] The Dolly dialogues. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1894. 2+195 p. il. nar. S. cl., 75 c. [3529]
A slim story of London society people is told through a series of witty, amusing dialogues.
- Horace, [Quintus Horatius Flaccus.] The odes of Horace; translated into English, by W: E. Gladstone. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1894. c. 12+154 p. O. cl., $1.50. [3530]
The difficulty of turning the Latin of Horace into corresponding terse, compact, epigrammatic, and at the same time poetical English has been mastered by Mr. Gladstone in a manner that will recommend his volumes to all lovers of the classics as an example of remarkably sympathetic and vigorous translation.
- *Hoss, E. E., D.D. Sunday-school studies; or expository and homiletical notes on the International lessons for 1895. Nashville, Tenn., Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, (Barbee & Smith, Agts.) 1894. 370 p. 8°, cl., $1. [3531]
- *Illinois. Appellate etc. Reports of cases submitted at the Aug. term, 1893, and the Feb. term, 1894, of the 4th district; at the Nov. term, 1892, and the May and Nov. terms, 1893, of the 3d district, and the May and Dec. terms, 1893, of the 2d district. V. 53; rep. by Martin L. Newell. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1894. c. 712 p. O. shp., $3.75. [3532]

Illinois. Supreme ct. Reports of cases, Norman L. Freeman, rep. V. 149, cont. cases in which opinions were filed in Oct. and Nov., 1893, and Jan., Mar., and Apr., 1894, and some cases in which applications for rehearing were denied at the Nov. term, 1893, and May and June terms, 1894. Springfield, Norman L. Freeman, 1894. c. 792 p. O. shp., $3. [3533]

Ingersoll, Rob. G. Is suicide a sin? Robert G. Ingersoll's famous letter; [also] Replies by Rev. T. Ducey, "Nym Crinkle," Madison C. Peters, and others. [Also,] Col. Ingersoll's rejoinder [and] a verdict of twelve eminent men of New York; prefaced by a startling chapter, Great suicides of history; [also,] Schopenhauer's celebrated essay on suicide. N. Y., Standard Pub. Co., 1285 B'way, 1894. c. 95 p. D. pap., 25 c. [3534]

J., W. The rights of labor: an inquiry as to the relation of employer and employed. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1894. c. 117 p. D. pap., 25 c. [3535]

An anonymous work by a young lawyer of Chicago, whose name is for the present withheld. He explains the present status of employer and employee before the law, with clearness and precision, and then goes on to advocate a specific reform in the law that would secure to the workmen a share in the product.

Johnson, Lionel. The art of Thomas Hardy, with a por. etched from life, by W. Strang, and a bibliography by J. Lane. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1894. 10+276+63 p. por. D. cl., net, $2. [3536]

The fifteen published works of Mr. Hardy are carefully considered. The author makes no claim to pass sentence upon them, he does not determine their absolute value, or assign them a rank and place. He considers Mr. Hardy a great artist, but is fully alive to his spirit of revolt, which has marred a few of his late works especially. Mr. Johnson's criticisms give a fair, exhaustive essay on the fiction of the century. The bibliography covers about forty pages, but much of them are left blank for additions. The paper and print are rich. The dissertation on "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is specially fine from literary and psychological standpoints.

Kennedy, J. Must Greek go? Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1894. c. 4-66 p. D. leatherette, 50 c. [3537]

The author, superintendent of schools, Batavia, N. Y., says that Greek will continue to be taught and must be taught to a certain extent, and gives his reasons at length.

Ketcham, W. E., D.D., comp. and ed. Thanksgivings sermons and outline addresses: an aid for pastors. N. Y., Wilbur B. Ketcham, [1894.] c. 329 p. D. cl., $1.50. [3538]

Evangelical, unsectarian sermons and outlines of sermons by prominent preachers of the day, selected by the editor with discriminating care.

Keyser, Leander S. In bird land. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1894. c. 3-269 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3539]

Articles on birds from observations made in various haunts in and about Springfield, Ohio. Contents: Wayside rambles; Bird curios; Winter frolics; February outings; Arrival of the birds; Winged voyagers; Plumage of young birds; Nest-hunting; Midsummer melodies; Where birds roost; The woodpecker; A pair of night-hawks; A bird's gala day; Rife with birds; Various phases of bird life; The secret of appreciation; Brownings in other fields; A bird anthology from Lowell; My bird list.

Kingsley, H. The recollections of Geoffrey Hamlyn. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1894. 2 v., 9+310; 5+310 p. S. cl., $2. [3540]

The third issue in the attractive American edition of Mr. Kingsley's novels, in which "Ravenshoe" and "Austin Elliott" have already appeared.

M., L. H. Biscuits and dried beef: a panacea. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1894. c. 2-76 p. D. cl., net, 40 c. [3544]

The experience of a poor clergyman, who decided to live within his income and follow the advice of his bishop—"never to incur indebtedness." Through the neglect and indifference of his congregation in paying his salary, he is often left without a penny to buy food. With the design of "pointing a moral" he invites a number of them to tea, sharing with them the contents of his larder—hot biscuits without butter, dried beef, apple sauce without sugar, and cold water. His plan works very well, and he has nothing to complain of in the future.

McCurdy, Matthew S. An exercise-book in algebra: designed for supplementary or review work in connection with any textbook on algebra. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, [1894.] c. '92, '94. 5+56 p. D. cl., 60 c. [3545]

Designed to furnish a collection of exercises similar in character to those in the ordinary text-books of medium grade as to difficulty; selected with special reference to giving an opportunity for drill upon these subjects which experience has shown to be difficult for students to master.

Maclaren, Alex., D.D. The Psalms. V. 3, Psalms XC.-CL. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1894. 5+461 p. D. (Expositors' Bible) cl., $1.50. [3546]

Maeterlinck, Maurice. Pélleas and Mélisande: a drama in five acts; tr. by Erving Winslow. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1894.] c. 2-135 p. S. cl., $1. [3547]

Maeterlinck, sometimes called "the Flemish Shakespeare," represents one of the leaders in the new style of "symbolical" writing, which is attracting so much attention at the present time. Arthur Symonds has called this school a body of "Decadents," but it is in reality a revival. Maurice Maeterlinck was born in 1864. His earlier work was a volume Serres Chandes; after, he wrote La Princesse Maleine, which appeared in 1890, followed by L'Intruse, Les Aveugles, and Les Sept Princesses. The present work is his latest. It is a drama for the reader and not for the stage, and has a clean and definite plot in which different people will see different meanings. It is the old story or a variation of the old story of Francesca da Rimini and her lover. Mr. Winslow furnishes a brief biographical and explanatory introduction.

Marshall, Emma. Lizette and her mission; or, over the moor; il. by W. Lance. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., [1894.] 6+332 p. D. cl., $1.50. [3548]

A story picturing life in a Yorkshire farm-house about forty years ago, and telling how Lizette Ravensworth attempted to play the part of mediator between her uncle and a refractory stepson; and giving some of the incidents that followed this effort, notably an unconventional betrothal.

Marwick, W. Fisher. Fundamentals: a brief unfolding of the basal truths of the Christian faith. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1894.] c. 3-276 p. D. cl., 75 c. [3549]

Sets forth in simple form, and without sectarianism, the basal truths of the Christian religion under the headings of: God, Man, Sin, Repentance, Faith, Regeneration, Adoption, Peace, Hope, Love, Holiness, Heaven.

- Palmer, Lynde. Where honour leads. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1894.] c. 3+363 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3563]
The hero and heroine in a "Question of honor" have the same parts in the story which opens with their return to Penfield Centre, ten years after their mining experience in the west. In the present novel, as was the case in the preceding one, honor is the vexed question, and it leads Schuyler Prage into some strange situations, notably a trial for murder. On his action in this crisis the interest depends.
- Pansy (The) [1894]; ed. by Mrs. Isabella M. Alden, ["Pansy," pseud.] Bost., Lothrop Pub. Co., 1894. c. 6+384 p. O. cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25. [3564]
- Parkhurst, H. E. The birds' calendar. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1894. c. 6+351 p. il. D. cl., net, $1.50. [3565]
An informal diary of a year's observations made by Mr. Parkhurst, as business would permit, in Central Park of New York City in 1893. He describes with much sympathy and enthusiasm the various birds he saw month by month; their number and variety will surprise the reader. Embellished with twenty-four full-page pictures of birds; printed on fine paper, with uncut edges, and attractively bound.
- *Paul, Solon W., ed. The Gast-Paul directory of bankers and attorneys, the banks of the world, to which is added a full list of villages accessible to banking towns throughout the U. S., [etc.,] July, 1894, semi-annual. St. Louis, Gast-Paul, [1894.] c. 758 p. O. cl., $5. [3566]

- Post, Edwin. Latin at sight; with an introd., suggestions for sight-reading and selections for practice. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1894. c. 10+210 p. D. cl., 90 c. [3569]
An outgrowth of a teacher's attempt to teach Latin. The introduction is intended for teachers rather than for pupils. The grammar references are to the books of Allen and Greenough, Gildersleeve and Harkness. The second part on "How to read" is followed by about one hundred and eighty selections for practice, which are in a measure graded.
- Potts, Ja. H., D.D. The Lord's day, our Sabbath. Rev. ed. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1894. c. 61 p. S. leatherette, 25 c. [3570]
An argument in favor of the first day of the week being the Christian Sabbath.
- Purdy, C: W., M.D. Practical uranalysis and urinary diagnosis: a manual for the use of physicians, surgeons, and students. Phil., The F. A. Davis Co., 1894. c. 14+357 p. il. O. cl., net, $2.50. [3571]
Pt. 1, "Analysis of urine," consists of general considerations, theories of secretion and excretion of urine, composition of normal and abnormal urine, proteids, carbohydrates, urinary, chemical, and anatomical sediments, and gravel and calculus. Pt. 2, "Urinary diagnosis," aims at a concise description of the special features of the urine that indicate the presence of special pathological processes in progress in the economy, whether they be local or general, medical or surgical, together with a brief enumeration of the leading clinical symptoms of each disease, and in most cases an epitome of their nature and theology. There is an appendix upon the subject of urinary examinations for life insurance.

Rochester whist and game ledger: a complete record of place, date, partners, points, games, hands in each game, points and trump in each hand and winner of each hand, with a section for drive whist, progressive euchre, etc. Rochester, N. Y., The Lyon Book Co., 36 Meigs St., [1894.] unpubl. F^o, pap., 50 c. [3572]

Rohe, G. H., M.D. Text-book of hygiene: a comprehensive treatise on the principles and practice of preventive medicine from an American standpoint. 3d ed., rev. and rewritten. Phil., F. A. Davis Co., 1894. c. 7+553 p. il. O. cl., net, $3. [3573]

In this edition every chapter has been subjected to a careful revision, and the advances in sanitary science and practice have been incorporated. Surgeon-General Walter Wyman, and Dr. H. D. Geddings, of the United States Marine Hospital Service, have, at the request of the author, entirely rewritten the chapter upon Quarantine, and it will be found to represent fully the modern principles and practice of maritime sanitation. Medical Director Albert L. Gihon, United States Navy, has again thoroughly revised the chapter on marine hygiene. In view of making the book still more useful to teachers, students, and sanitary officers than heretofore, an analytical set of questions has been appended to each chapter, and a separate section added on methods of examination of air, water, and food, by Prof. Seneca Egbert, of Phila.

Rupert, W. W., comp. A geographical reader; or, pen-pictures in geography. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, [1894.] c. 9+371 p. il. D. cl., 65 c. [3574]

Compiled for the purpose of supplementing the ordinary text-book on geography. The author believes that much less time should be given to memorizing unimportant details, and that the time thus saved should be devoted to the reading of these attractive and instructive selections bearing upon the subject, from our best magazines and books of travel.

Sacher-Masoch, Leopold v. Jewish tales; from the French, by Harriet Lieber Cohen. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1894. c. 2+317 p. D. cl., $1. [3575]

These entertaining prose idylls have already attained great popularity in France. While they delight their readers with their humor and pathos—with their realistic pictures of human life, both in comic and serious aspects—they have a special value of their own. For the Jew of former days, with his distinctive marks of hair, beard, dress, and customs, is fast passing away under the influence of modern innovations; and these tales will be prized as faithful pictures of the Jewish people's life in the good old times.

Sanderson, Jos., D.D. The story of Saint Patrick; with a sketch of Ireland's condition before and after Patrick's time. [Also] Ireland and the Irish, their Christianity, institutions, missions, mission fields, and learning from the earliest times; with an appendix, by J. Borland Finlay. N. Y., Wilbur B. Ketcham, 1895 [1894.] c. 2-264 p. O. cl., $4. [3576]

A popular life of St. Patrick, based upon facts and upon his characteristics and teachings as revealed in his genuine writings. Shows that the church established by him in Ireland was not subject to the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Rome, and that this independence continued for seven centuries after Patrick's time. The author further states that "there is no mention in Patrick's teaching of auricular confession, invocation of saints, purgatory, or any of the destructive dogmas of the Romish church."

Saunders, Marshall. Beautiful Joe: the autobiography of a dog. Holiday ed. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1420 Chestnut St., [1894.] 4-304 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [3577]

Seabury, W. Jones, D.D. An introduction to the study of ecclesiastical polity. N. Y., Crothers & Korth, 1894. c. 304 p. D. cl., net, $1.50. [3578]

A treatise on the government of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, by the rector of "The Church of the Annunciation," New York City, as it effects duty to God, duty to our neighbor, and especially duty to the civil authority. The matter was brought together as a basis of lectures to students in the General Theological Seminary, but is of wide interest and should be understood by all holding any position in any church organization.

Squance, Herbert S. Miss Mackerell Skye: a fairy tale for young and old; il. by A. D. McCormick. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., [1894.] 5+150 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [3580]

Elsa and Alfrie Donne, tiring of their play one stormy day, are impelled to examine a falling snow-flake, and while they are thus engaged the tiny snow-flake seems to assume the shape of a wee maiden, who calls herself Evelyn Mackerell-Skye, and who invites the two children to accompany her to Cloudland. The results of this aerial journey are seen in a story of wonderful fact and strange fancy.

The subject of this memoir was a distinguished Methodist divine. His first pastorate was in Rochester; he was for some years a missionary in South America; in 1841 he was stationed at Paterson, New Jersey, and shortly afterward at Trenton. For twelve years (1844-1856) he was the secretary of the Sunday-School Union and editor of the Sunday-School Advocate. He wrote "Mormonism and the Mormons," "Sketches of a residence and travels in Brazil," and "Brazil and the Brazilians," etc. He died July 29, 1891.

Townsend, Virginia F. Sirs, only seventeen. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1894. c. 5+323 p. D. cl., $1.50. [3584]

Miss Townsend pictures the lives of some very interesting people in this story, prominent among whom are Dorothy Draycott and her brother Tom, a Harvard student, two strong and attractive characters. Boston and vicinity furnish the groundwork for most of the scenes, the movements and incidents of which are sufficiently alluring to keep the reader's interest and attention to the end.

Trowbridge, J. Three boys on an electrical boat. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1894. c. 3+215 p. D. cl., $1. [3585]

This book is part of the record and romantic conjecture of the present age. It is a story for boys by the author of "The electrical boy," and Rumford professor and lecturer on the application of science to the useful arts in Harvard University. The boy heroes escape from a boys' school in the north of Maine, where they are not very happy, and making their way to the Atlantic coast after many adventures, get aboard of an American ironclad, where they are initiated into the many mysteries of electricity, and learn the secret of their real name and birth.

PICK-UPS.

THE following is the reply of a man to a bookseller who had sent him a bill for a book.
"I never ordered the book; if I did, you didn't send it; if you sent it, I never got it; if I got it,
I paid for it; if I didn't, I won't."—Western Stationer.

A GOOD story is told of a certain bookseller who sent a set of books to be bound in scarlet morocco. They came home neatly bound in green calf. The irate bookseller rushed instantly to the bookbinder and demanded an explanation. "What the infernal do you mean by binding books in your own adjective style? You had an order, a written order! Why didn't you follow it?" The bookbinder acknowledged he had an order, and what was more he had followed it. He turned up the order and showed it. It read, "Scarlet morocco—or nearest you have in stock." Some folks are never satisfied.
—Washington Book Chronicle.

IN the window of a book-store on Seventh Street could be seen recently, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, an engraving entitled "The Death of the Sinner," showing a man on his deathbed, while all around were dragons, snakes, and other hideous animals. Attached was a card on which was written, "You who spend your money for booze instead of books, beware of a like end."

FROM an N. Y. auction catalogue.—331 Bryant and Stratton [!] A popular history of the United States. Fully illustrated. 4 v. 8°.

"THE Bajetta Woman" was recently called for in a library that shall be nameless, by a borrower (female) who insisted that the book was "in" and "a very nice novel." Finally the librarian asked her to write the title, and with a flash of phonetic inspiration, produced A. S.
Hardy's "But Yet a Woman." It was what she wanted.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 10, 1894.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ORGANIZATION OF THE BOOK TRADE.

THE book trade of this country is unique in that it to-day lacks organization of any kind. While the individual members of other trades and professions exert themselves to the utmost to combine for defensive as well as offensive action; to bring the individuals—principals and employees alike—into closer fellowship, the members of the book trade, with a strange fatality, have chosen to remain separate individuals, every one for himself, in fact, have striven to keep as far apart as possible. When on the occasion of the death of this or that leading member of the trade, some of his confrères have stood about his coffin, it has even been found that but few of them had ever looked upon his face before. To few of those who stood about the departed had he been a companion or comrade; to the rest he was, probably, simply a competitor, a stranger excepting in name. When vital questions confront the trade, each individual solves them in his own way; or, more often, ignores them altogether until the evils arising from such neglect grow up and threaten to choke the life out of his business, and then only he resorts to a remedy which very often is feebly effective, because, through his very isolation, he is unable to calculate its effect in the widest sense. As travel enlarges the mind of a man, so surely does the interchange of ideas. And as two men can lift a load which either one could not move, so the united counsel of a body of masters of any trade would be more certain to devise a mode of action that would prove more effective and cover more points than could possibly occur to the mind of one man. Besides, a closer acquaintance would often soften a decision, or make unnecessary an act that must seem uncalled for, if not harsh, when committed at long range by strangers.

The rank and file of the book trade have gradually become more alive to the advantages afforded by closer organization and are now making an effort to still further enlarge the opportunities for more frequent intercourse. Recognizing the benefits derived through the Booksellers and Stationers' Provident Association a number of its members have started a movement towards organizing an auxiliary society whose aim will be to provide what is outside the province of the parent organization, namely, an opportunity for meeting socially at least once a month. By degrees the scope of such a society as the proposed Booksellers' and Stationers' League may be widened to provide instruction as well as entertainment through lectures of a practical character by those who have proved fittest. A resort may be provided at which visiting members from other parts of the country may be entertained while stopping in New York, or where those temporarily out of work may make their headquarters. The possibilities of such an organization are many and too evident to need enumeration. As an evidence of the support with which it will meet we need only mention the fact that without a systematic canvass upwards of a hundred persons have already enrolled their names. In a short time a meeting is to be called and a formal organization effected. It is to be hoped that the movement will grow upward and inspire the principals to combine for a like or even a more needed practical purpose.

THE next issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will be its Christmas Number—THE CHRISTMAS BOOKSHELF—and will cover the two weeks including November 17 and 24. This issue will be exclusively devoted to a review of the holiday books, brightened by illustrations from the more important and most representative publications. The "Christmas Bookshelf" is one of the best means a bookseller can employ to attract the attention of his patrons to his new stock. Orders for it should be sent at once. A less expensive but also very attractive advertising medium between dealer and buyer is The Literary News, also amply illustrated, and as far as its space permits representative and wholly trustworthy. To suggest temptingly that books are welcome above all other gifts these publications are invaluable.

FIN DE SIECLE BINDINGS.

PROFESSOR BRANDER MATTHEWS, in a recent article on "Commercial Bookbinding" in the Century, says: "In one of the annual volumes of 'La Vie à Paris,' stout tomes of cheerful gossip, intermitted now that the author is the director of the Théâtre Français and a member of the French Academy, M. Jules Claretie tells a pleasant anecdote of a contemporary Parisian binder who was asked to cover one of the beautiful books which M. Conquet sends forth spasmodically from his little shop, and who drew back with scorn, declaring, 'Sir, I will not dishonor myself by binding a modern book.'

"Ours are not the books of old, but sometimes, when they are the result of taking thought and pains, they have a merit of their own; and the thing that steam can stamp and fold may be as lovely in its way as the poet's missal of the thirteenth century, around which the illuminator's brother monks sang 'little choruses of praise.' The beauty of the modern book is not that of the book of yore. There will always be between them the difference which separates machine work from that done by hand—a difference wide enough and deep enough to admit of no denial. But the volumes stamped by steam may have their own charm and their own qualities—to say nothing of their superior fitness for the nineteenth century, when Democracy is triumphant.

"The books bound in thousands for publishers are mostly ill bound from haste and greed, from ignorance and reckless disregard of art. But once in a way they attain a surprisingly high level. Just how excellent some modern commercial bindings are scarcely any of us have taken time to discover, for we are prone to overlook not a few of the best expressions of contemporary art, natural outgrowths of modern conditions, in our persistent seeking for some great manifestations which we fail to find. Great manifestations of art are hopelessly rare, and little things far more often attain perfection and reward our seeking.

"A chromolithographic placard does not seem to promise much, but in M. Cheret's hands the 'poster' is never insipid, and has often a most engaging and masterly originality. Cast iron is an unlovely material, but, by recognizing its limitations, Alfred Stevens was able to give dignity to the little lions on the outer rail at the British Museum. So a book cover stamped by steam may be a thing of beauty if it is designed by Mrs. Whitman or by Mr. Stanford White. It is a fact that commercial bookbinding, often ignorantly looked down on, is now at a most interesting stage of its history, and it seems to me very well worth while to consider some of its recent successes.

"In a paper on 'Bookbinding Considered as a Fine Art, Mechanical Art and Manufacture,' read before the Society of Arts in London, Mr. Henry B. Wheatley declared that 'cloth-binding is entirely an English invention.' Just as the fine art of bookbinding began in Italy during the Renaissance, and was most highly cultivated in France, so the art of cloth-binding, arising in Great Britain, has been carried to a higher level of mechanical perfection by machines invented or mightily improved in the United States; and I am inclined to think that the principles which should govern the decoration of cloth covers are better understood in New York than in London—in so far at least as one may judge from the results of their application. This is the great merit of modern commercial bookbinding done by machinery—that it is independent, that it has freed itself from the trammels and the traditions of the hand work, that it is no longer a savorless sham copying blindly; that it lives its own life.

"In this change Great Britain and the United States have led the way, followed for once by France, and, after an interval, by Germany. It was in frugal Germany that 'half-binding' had its origin. Half-binding is a money-saving contrivance, which lordly book lovers have reprobated as equivalent to genteel poverty. The Jansenists used to keep the leather sides of their books free from ornament; and some sparing German carried this simplicity one step further, substituting paper for the plain surface of leather, and using morocco and calf only for the back and a narrow but needful hinge on each side. To push this economy a little further yet was easy, and so it came to pass in the last century that the English binders omitted altogether the leather, and covered both the sides and the back with paper.

"Early in this century the disadvantage of paper-covered boards led to the use of plain glazed calico in place of the paper. There was at first no thought of decoration; the plain calico was substituted for the plain paper because it was stronger, and did not chip and tear quite so easily; the title was still printed on a label of white paper and pasted on the back of the volume. The edition of Byron's works in seventeen volumes, published in 1833, is supposed to have been the first work issued without the paper label and with the title printed in gold on the backs of the books.

"Thereafter the art speedily improved. The cloth was dyed to any desired color, and it was run through rollers to give it any desired grain or texture. The old-fashioned arming press was modified and made stronger, and steam was swiftly substituted for foot-power. Subsequent improvements enabled the pattern to be imprinted on the side and back of the book in as many colors as an artist could use to advantage and the publisher was willing to pay for. And the work can be done with extraordinary speed; it is no unusual thing now for a bindery to turn out several thousand copies of a book in the course of twenty-four hours."

BOOKS BY THE MILLION.

JAMES GRANT WILSON, in his "Hoffman Library Lecture," at St. Stephen's College, Annandale, New York, recently published, estimates that the number of printed volumes which have appeared during the four and one-half centuries since the art of printing by movable types was invented, is in the neighborhood of 20,000,000, but somewhat under that number. Mr. Wilson thinks it probable, though trustworthy data on the subject are necessarily unattainable, that the unpublished and unprinted books produced during that period greatly exceed in number those which have come from the press, representing a melancholy waste of human effort and energy. He estimates that there are at present contained in American and European libraries 86,384,500 volumes, the excess of that number over 20,000,000 of course being in duplicates.

Of books, manuscripts, maps, charts, engravings, and pamphlets, a total of not less than 150,000,000 is contained in the libraries of Europe and the United States at the present time, exclusive of about 2,000,000 in the British Colonies, Mexico, and South America, and in China, India, and Japan.

The largest of the great libraries of the world, the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris, contains a total of 2,600,000 volumes; the British Museum, 1,650,000; The Library of Congress comes fifth in the list, and first of American libraries, with 680,000. The Public Library of Boston, which stands seventh on the list, has 597,152 volumes. Of the thirty-five largest libraries in the world, Germany has twelve, containing a total of 5,639,000 volumes; Great Britain and the United States, which come next, have each four, the former with a total of 2,955,000 volumes, and the latter with 2,057,152.

THE LIVERMORE LIBRARY.

The Collector writes of the library of the late George Livermore, of Cambridge, Mass., to be sold, as already noted, by C. F. Libbie & Co., at Boston on the 20th inst., and following days, that the collection of Bibles, psalms, and hymns to be offered, "is believed to be the most valuable ever offered for sale in Boston, if not in the United States.

"Nearly a quarter part of the entire collection consists of Bibles and Biblical works, in various languages, versions and forms, from the ancient Hebrew roll to the modern translation. Among the manuscripts of interest are the Pentateuch, carefully written on thirty-six skins of parchment, and two copies of the Bible, written by the monks of the Middle Ages, elaborately illuminated with beautiful initial letters and miniatures. An Evangelistarium, or selections from the Gospels, for the use of the church, written on parchment in the eighth century, is one of the oldest books in the country.

"Next in order is the Biblia Pauperum, a block book, or series of wood cuts representing scripture subjects. The precise date is not known, but bibliographers place it between 1420 and 1460. There is also a single leaf of the Mazarin Bible, the first book ever printed, the New Testament printed by Fust and Schoeffer in 1462, being the first book in which the date is given, and quite a number of works within the first half century of printing. Cromwell's 'Souldier's Pocket Bible,' 1643, of which only one other copy is known; Eliot's Indian Bible, both first and second editions, with the rare dedications to King Charles II.; a fine copy of Coverdale's Bible, 1535, the first English translation; Melancthon's own copy of the Bible, with his manuscript notes on the margins, and a beautiful and unique copy of Reeves' Bible in nine volumes, with several hundred water-color illustrations by the Elder Harris, of London; Ximenes' Polyglott, 1514-17; Antwerp Polyglott, 1569-72; Walton's Polyglott, 1657; Servetus Bible, 1542, are others. Of English versions are many editions of Wyclif, Coverdale, Tyndale, Cranmer and the Genevan, Bishop's and Douay versions, and many curious and miniature editions, including the Wicked, the Vinegar, the Breeches, the Thumb Bibles, etc.

"There are rare and valuable books in other departments of literature, works from the celebrated presses of Gutenberg, Fust and Schoeffer, Caxton, Wynken de Worde, Koberger, Plantin, Pynson, Baskerville, Stephen Daye, the first American printer, and Benjamin Franklin; privately printed books from the Strawberry Hill, Lee Priory, Great Totham and Auchinleck Presses, and the Roxburghe and other clubs. Halliwell's edition of Shakespeare in sixteen folio volumes; a complete set of the Percy Society Publications, beautifully bound; nearly all the publications of Dibdin; India paper copies of the Riverside editions of Bacon's, Burton's, and Montaigne's Works; British Poets and Essayists; Sunnyside edition of Irving's Works, 26 vols.; Caxton's Chronicle, 1520, and Higden's Polychronicon, 1582; Cooper's Chronicle, 1560; Harding's Chronicle, 1543, and a fine copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle, 1493; Brandt's Ship of Fools, 1570; Vision of Piers Plowman, 1561; Walton and Cotton's Angler, Pickering, 1836, figure in the catalogue.

"The Americana include publications of the early New England Divines, the Mathers, John and Seaborn Cotton, Thomas Shepherd, Michael Wigglesworth, Samuel Willard, James Fitch, and John Fisk; Bay Psalm Book and reprints; Massachusetts Psalter, 1709; Indian Primer, 1747; Hale's 'Witchcraft,' 1702; Scot's 'Discovery of Witchcraft,' 1665; 'New England's First Fruits,' 1643; Bishope's 'New England Judged,' 1661; Josselyn's 'New England Rarities,' 1672, etc., etc., as well as a small collection of Washington's Portraits."

THE WORK ON THE NEW CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

AFTER an inspection of the work in progress on the new Congressional Library building, A. R. Spofford, librarian of Congress, on the 3d inst. expressed the opinion that the building would be ready for occupancy by the summer of 1896, and that the library might be removed from its present cramped quarters in the capitol to the new building by the middle of that year. The work on the building is being pressed forward with all possible speed, about 400 men being employed in the various branches of labor about the structure. The principal work now in progress is on the marble finish of the interior.

"INFELICIA"—A BIT OF LITERARY HISTORY.

AT a recent London sale a copy of the verses of Ada Isaacs Menken, "Infelicia," brought three guineas. The little book was originally sold for little more than as many shillings. "Infelicia," it may be remembered, says the Washington Book Chronicle, is dedicated to Charles Dickens, and in it Menken printed a fac-simile of a letter from him accepting the dedication. Dickens used to tell, with much humor, how this concession was wheedled out of him. At a time when Menken was playing "Mazeppa" in London, he was at the theatre. Her business manager captured him and carried him prisoner behind the scenes to be introduced to the star. She told him it had been the dream of her life to meet him, and gushed over his genius till he felt ashamed of himself, probably just as she before had gushed over her husbands, Newell, the humorist, and John C. Heenan, the hard hitter. The dedication of the book followed. Menken was at the time on good terms with Swinburne, who is believed to have more than touched up her verses for her, and she wound up her literary associations with Dumas to the vast disgust of his son."

DODD, MEAD & CO.'S REMOVAL.

DODD, MEAD & Co. are now fully established in their handsome new quarters at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-first Street. Their store has the advantage of being lighted with a number of windows on the street side and two large windows on the avenue front, affording an excellent opportunity for window display. The decoration of the interior is rigidly plain, the tints for the shelving and fixtures being a pale sage, the intention evidently having been to allow the books to be the real decoration of the store. The effect is that of a decidedly cosy and bookish interior. A large and well-lighted basement offers ample facilities for store and packing and despatch room.

The house of Dodd, Mead & Co. was organized in 1870, and succeeded Moses H. Dodd, who began business in 1839 on Park Row, where the Old Brick Church stood, and where now stands the New York Times building. When the Brick Church was torn down in 1855 Mr. Dodd removed to 506 Broadway, and in 1870, upon his retiring from business, his son Frank H. Dodd and the late Edward S. Mead continued under the name of Dodd, Mead & Co., and removed to No. 762 Broadway. In 1875 the firm occupied No. 751 Broadway, and in 1880 removed to Nos. 753-755 Broadway, where they remained till 1892. For the past two years the store has been in Nineteenth Street. Bleeker Van Wagenen became a member of the firm on January 1, 1876, and he, with Mr. Moses Dodd's two sons, Frank H. and Robert H., now comprise the firm. Edward S. Mead was a member of the firm from 1870 until his death, about a year ago.

"LIVING PICTURES."

THE "living picture" epidemic has brought up a curious question of artistic copyright. At the Empire Palace, a London music-hall, representations were given of certain paintings the originals of which are owned by Hanfstaengl, the German fine art publisher; and two newspapers—the daily Graphic and the Westminster Budget—brought out illustrations of the tableaux vivants. Application was made for an injunction against the music-hall and the periodicals. It was argued that the plaintiff had the "sole and exclusive right of reproduction" of the paintings in question, and that the "living picture" was a reproduction and therefore an infringement of copyright. The court held, however, that this was too wide a construction of the statute. It had been ruled that a wax-work modelled after an engraving was not a copy; and if so, a reproduction with living figures could scarcely be actionable. As to painted backgrounds, however, the question was left for later settlement; and it seems likely that on this point the final ruling may be in favor of the owner of the original copyright.

THE CHICAGO "BLADE" SUED FOR PUBLISHING A COPYRIGHT PORTRAIT.

JACOB SCHLOSS, a New York photographer, began suit in the United States Circuit Court in Chicago, October 25, against the W. D. Boyce Company, publishers of the Chicago Blade, for $275,000 damages. The Blade, in a recent issue, published a portrait on which Schloss has a copyright, and the suit is for infringement. As the statutes allow the owner of a copyright $1 damages for each copy of the publication containing the infringement, and as the publishers of the Blade claim a circulation of 275,000, the amount of the damages is put at that figure.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN WALTER, chief proprietor of the London Times, died on the 3d inst., aged seventy-six years. He was the third of his name who held proprietorship in the Times. The paper was established on January 1, 1788, by his grandfather, a printer, bookseller, and publisher, possessed of a large business at Charing Cross. At first the enterprise was so unprofitable that its discontinuance was seriously contemplated, but under the founder's son, a man of energy, education, and foresight, who succeeded his father in 1810, the Times ascended in public favor and political influence, and eventually became a highly remunerative concern.

PHILIP GILBERT HAMERTON, the well-known English art-critic and litterateur, died at Boulogne-sur-Seine, France, on November 5. His death was most unexpected, as he was believed to be in excellent health. Mr. Hamerton was one of the best known of modern writers on art topics. He was born at Laneside, in Lancashire, on September 10, 1834, and prepared for Oxford, but never matriculated, plunging instead into literary and artistic work. He studied painting, and though in the view of artists his pictures were commonplace, they were popular and had many good qualities. His first literary work was a series of articles on "Rome in 1849," contributed to the London Science, and in 1885 he published a volume of poems, "The Isles of Loch Awe," illustrated by himself. In this year he migrated to Paisley, where he studied painting and literature. In 1857 he settled at Loch Awe, where he obtained material for his most successful work, "A Painter's Camp," and in 1861 he returned to France, where he resided until his death. He contributed for several years to the Fine Arts Quarterly Review and the Fortnightly. From 1866 to 1868 he was art-critic for the Saturday Review, he was the originator of the excellent art review The Portfolio, and he was always a frequent contributor to French and American magazines. Among his most notable works are: "Etching and Etchers," 1868; "Contemporary French Painters," 1868; "The Intellectual Life," 1873; "Round My House," personal observations of French rural life, 1876; "The Graphic Arts," 1882; a sumptuous work on "Landscape," in 1884; "Imagination in Landscape Painting," 1887; "Portfolio Papers,"

1889; and "Man in Art," which was one of the handsome art-books of last year. He has edited various art collections or compilations, and published several novels, the best known being "Marmorne," issued in 1878. A collected edition of his works in ten volumes was published at Boston, Mass., in 1882, by Roberts Brothers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE author of "The Green Carnation," recently published in this country by D. Appleton & Co., is said to be Mr. R. S. Hitchens.

THE opening chapters of Mrs. Burton Harrison's new novel, "An Errant Wooing," will be printed in the Christmas number of The Century. The scene is laid in London.

THE AUTHORS' CLUB has engaged, for the permanent occupancy of the club, a suite of rooms in the extension of the Carnegie Music Hall, in West Fifty-seventh Street, New York. It is expected that the new quarters will be ready by January of next year. In the meantime the club is occupying the rooms of the Architectural League of New York, at 215 West Fifty-seventh Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly a life of the late Charles Loring Brace, founder of the Children's Aid Society, by his daughter, Miss Emma Brace.

THE ROBERT CLARKE Co., of Cincinnati, have in preparation a reprint of Withers' "Chronicles of Border Warfare," to be edited by Mr. Reuben G. Thwaites.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have in preparation a new translation of "Paul and Virginia," by Prof. Melville B. Anderson, head of the English department at Stanford University.

HENRY ALTEMUS, Philadelphia, has arranged with Elliot Stock, of London, to issue the facsimile reprint of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" after the original impression of 1678, which was recently described in these columns.

WILLIAM EVARTS BENJAMIN offers for sale at two thousand dollars, a perfect copy, in fine condition, with the original covers, of the first edition of Poe's "Tamerlane," 1817, probably the rarest American book of the century.

THE GROLIER CLUB has arranged an exhibition of early printed books selected from the collection presented to the club by David Wolfe Bruce. The collection will be open to inspection until the 24th inst., from 10 o'clock A.M. to 6 P.M.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. will publish at once a copyright edition of "Hidden Depths: a tale for the times," by F. M. F. Skene, with a preface by the English philanthropist, Wm. Shephard Allen, M.P., which the publishers expect may cause some controversy.

THE many admirers of "The Autocrat" will be glad to learn that Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will soon publish an Oliver Wendell Holmes Year-Book containing selections for each day of the year from Dr. Holmes' prose and poetry. It will have a new portrait.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. report that they have sold nine hundred and seventy-five sets of their limited edition of Dumas in forty-eight volumes at $120 a set, and have raised the price of the remaining sets to $3 a volume. The édition de luxe of Lever (forty volumes) is nearly all sold.

THE CENTURY COMPANY has sent us a batch of posters printed in colors from designs on grained zinc. Notable among these is the Napoleon poster designed by the famous French designer of affiches, E. Grafset, the plates of which were made in Paris, but printed in this country. The posters are remarkable for their chaste design and perfect harmony of color.

COPELAND & DAY have in preparation the first essays in fiction of Miss Louise Imogen Guiney, entitled "Lovers—Saint—Ruth's, and Three Other Idylls;" "Medder—Grass," a volume of New England tales by Alice Brown; "The Black Riders, and Other Lines," by Stephen Crane; and a volume of Wilfrid Scawen Blunt's "Love Sonnets," to be issued in the pretty series begun last year by Rossetti's "House of Life."

JAMES H. WEST, formerly with George H. Ellis, has established himself in sunny quarters at 174 High Street, Boston, and is publishing some pretty little volumes which will be of interest to all liberal thinkers. Such, for example, is the first printed book of the Rev. Chas. G. Ames, formerly of Philadelphia, entitled "As Natural as Life." Mr. West, who has been a preacher, publishes also one or two of his own books: the latest is "In Love With Love." He also issues the essays given by John Fiske and other men of note before the Brooklyn Ethical Association, under the title "Sociology."

THE ARENA COMPANY, of Boston, have in preparation "The History of Brook Farm," by Dr. John T. Codman, one of the few remaining Bostonians of the older generation that witnessed the early struggles and final triumphs of the writers and reformers who made New England famous. Dr. Codman is one of the few survivors of the Brook Farm experiment, and is still hale and hearty. They have also in preparation "Meditations in Motley: a bundle of papers imbued with the sobriety of midnight," a volume of gossip, social, and literary papers, with humorous and fantastic digressions, by Mr. Hart, who was for three years assistant editor of The New England Magazine, and who recently became the literary adviser to the Arena Publishing Co.

Dr. ROBERTSON NICOLL, who "discovered" J. M. Barrie and Jane Barlow, and who is unrivalled in the ranks of English journalism for the keenness and rapidity with which he scents the new thing, has unearthed in Ian Maclaren a new writer of genius who has joined the band of young Scotch writers who are revealing to the world the warm heart of the cold north country. Nearly all of Mr. Barrie's "Auld Licht Idylls" and Miss Barlow's "Irish Idylls" appeared in the columns of Dr. Nicoll's well-edited paper, The British Weekly, and most of Ian Maclaren's work was first printed in its pages. In their collected form, entitled "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," published by Dodd, Mead & Company, they promise to win an enviable and well-merited popularity.

In the Chicago Record Eugene Field rejoices in verse because of the return from abroad to his native city of Mr. George Millard of A. C. McClurg & Co., who has charge of the rare book department:

"George Millard is home!"
Come, ye maniacs, as of yore
From your musty, dusty hidings,
And in answer to the tidings
Crowd the Corner full once more,
Lo, from distant England's shore,
Laden down with spoils galore,
Such as bibliopes adore—
Books and prints in endless store,
Treasures singly or in set
(Labelled "j k t" and "net")
George returns to gratify
All who have the means to buy
Things that glad the heart and eye.

Ye who seek some rare old tome—
Maniacs shrewd or imbecile,
Urban, pastoral or idyllic.
Richly clad or disabillie—
Heed the summons bibliophilic:
"George Millard is home!"

ONE of the daintiest books that has been published in Boston for a long time is Mary Bowers Warren's "Little Journeys Abroad," which comes with the imprint of the Joseph Knight Company. "Miss Warren," writes Mr. Nathan Haskell Dole to Book News, "is a cousin to the present Duchess of Marlborough, and she lives in Troy, New York, Mr. Knight's former home. Some years ago Mr. Warren, her father, happened to be in a picture-shop in Albany and his attention was attracted by a little painting. He asked the price: 'Ten dollars.' He bought it. He inquired about the artist and found that he was a hatter's apprentice in an establishment nearby. He made the boy's acquaintance and was sufficiently interested to help him to a thorough art education. The young genius was of English parentage, George H. Boughton, A.R.A., and, as a mark of his gratitude, now that he has become famous, he has taken especial pleasure in furnishing the daughter of his former benefactor with a number of most beautiful illustrations for her little volume. One of the pictures in the chapter, entitled 'With the Dons at Oxford,' is a portrait of Professor Max Müller."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish at once in two volumes S. T. Pickard's "Life and Letters of John G. Whittier." This is the authorized biography arranged for while Mr. Whittier was living. Mr. Pickard was closely connected with Whittier, enjoyed his full confidence, and was entrusted with all available material for his life. The work will contain seven etched portraits and views. They have also just ready in their American Men of Letters series a biography of George William Curtis, by Edward Cary, which, in a way, will be "authorized" as Mr. Curtis' family have given Mr. Cary their cordial assistance in his work; "A Century of Charades, by William Bellamy, which will contain a hundred original charades, and be admirably suited for a holiday gift; "The Story of Lawrence Garthe," a new story by Ellen Olney Kirke; a new and greatly enlarged edition of Lucretia P. Hale's delightful and useful volume, "Faggots for the Fireside," the new matter being largely devoted to that fascinating game "Golf"; "Notes on the Forest Flora of Japan," by Charles Sprague Sargent, who spent the past year in Japan collecting material for this volume; also, "Side Glimpses from the Colonial Meeting-House," in which the author, William Root Bliss, depicts phases of the religious life and ecclesiastical customs of that era with much force, but hardly so as to make the reader deeply regret that he did not live in the "good old colonial days." Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will also soon publish in two volumes a "Memoir of Maria Edgeworth with a Selection from Her Letters by Mrs. Edgeworth." This book, which was privately printed some years ago, is now published for the first time by permission of the Edgeworth family. The work has been carefully edited by Mr. Augustus J. C. Hare, who contributes a preface to his work. "A Story of Courage: annals of the Georgetown Convent of the Visitation," by George Parsons Lathrop and Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, is nearly ready. This book, written in the fullest sympathy and with the most devout admiration, is a history of the Order of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary from its institution by St. Francis de Sales, and an account of the founding of the order and of the convent at Georgetown, D. C. This book will appeal very strongly to those whose associations with the convent and the academy have been intimate, both Catholics and Protestants. This is the first book written in collaboration by Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop.

FOREIGN NOTES.

IN 1925 a prize of $1,000,000 will be given to the writer whom the Russian National Academy shall adjudge to have written the best biography of Alexander I. The prize is the outgrowth of a fund of 50,000 roubles given by a favorite minister of Alexander I. in 1825, and left to accumulate at compound interest for a century.

A FINE edition, in three volumes, of "The Ingoldsby Legends" is coming out in London. Mrs. Bond, the daughter of the author, has prepared it, and she contributes a memoir, a bibliography, and occasional notes. A portrait of the author, a reproduction of a water-color by Cruikshank, hitherto unpublished, and the well-known illustrations on steel and wood by other famous artists, will adorn the edition.

WE believe that Germany is the first country that honors the name of a bookseller by giving it to a street of one of its principal cities. The Council of Leipzig on the 13th ult. voted to name two streets, the one Perthes Strasse, after Friedrich Perthes of Gotha, and the other Frohmann Strasse, after Friedrich Johannes Frohmann of Jena. The Bibliographisches Institut, K. F. Koehler, C. G. Roeder, and other lesser known publishing houses are located on these streets.

METHUEN & Co., London, have just ready Baring-Gould's new book on the "Deserts of Southern France." The author has spent several winters in exploring this extraordinary region, which lies outside the track of the ordinary tourist, and his book is the first serious attempt to describe the great barren tableland that extends to the South of Limousin in the Department of Aveyron, Lot, etc. The region is full of prehistoric and historic interest, relics of cave-dwellers and mediæval robbers, and of the English domination and the Hundred Years' War.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BATH, ME.—J. O. Shaw has opened a new book-store here.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Webb & Owings, book-sellers, have gone into the hands of a receiver. John M. Webb has issued a circular stating that there have been dissensions in the firm, that there are three times as many assets as liabilities, that the receiver was appointed at the instance of his partner, W. H. Owings, who owns a minority interest, and that there is no reason for any creditor losing anything or experiencing any delay in getting what is due him.

BOZEMAN, MONT.—The Bozeman Book and Stationery Store, M. M. Black manager, has been sold to W. W. Burket, of Deer Lodge. Mr. Burket owns a news and stationery store in Deer Lodge, which he will move to Bozeman and consolidate with the stock he has purchased.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The S. J. Clark Publishing Co. has been incorporated. Capital stock, $15,000; incorporators: Samuel J. Clark, James M. Blazer, and others.

LANCASTER, WIS.—Mrs. S. Scott and daughter have purchased the business stand of John Stagman, and will soon open a book and stationery store.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Drallop Publishing Company will publish and sell books and periodicals. Its capital is said to be $2000, and the directors are F. J. Pfister, Walter F. Pollard, and Magdalena Pfister, all of New York.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mr. H. W. Hagemann, who recently severed his connection with the Hagemann Publishing Co., has established himself in the book business under his own name at 160 Fifth Avenue. He will deal in standard and rare books, and pay special attention to importing English and other foreign books. Mr. Hagemann in making this change returns to a field in which he has numerous friends, and in which he has in times past enjoyed considerable success, which, we trust, will attend him in the future.

NEW YORK CITY.—The suit and attachment of J. J. Little & Co., against the H. W. Hagemann Publishing Company, has been dismissed. The legal proceedings were instituted with the approval of one-half the stockholders of the company in order to bring about a settlement of internal dissensions. This has been accomplished, and the company is continuing business at No. 114 5th Ave. without change in the management except that H. W. Hagemann has retired, having disposed of his stock to the remaining shareholders.

OLEAN, N. Y.—Brady & Corsaw have opened a new book, stationery, and fancy-goods store here.

TROY, N. Y.—B. G. Wilson has opened a stationery and periodical store here.

WARREN, O.—F. T. Stone has opened a new book and stationery store in the Franklin Block.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA.—A new stationery and book-store has been opened here by Stouck Bros.

NOVEMBER —.—The well-known collection of first editions of Emerson, Hawthorne, Holmes, Longfellow, Lowell, Poe, and Whittier. [This library is the result of ten years' constant research, and represents the best collection of these authors ever made or offered for sale. The condition of these volumes is the best possible, in many cases the choice of several copies purchased. The value of the books is very much increased and their interest enhanced by the insertion of autograph letters, verses, or other interesting autograph material relating to them or their authors].—Bangs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED

Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush.

By IAN MACLAREN. 12mo, $1.25.

"The book is destined to a great, a long-enduring, and an enviable popularity. . . . In his gift of temperate yet moving pathos he is unsurpassed by any living writer."—Dr. ROBERTSON NICOLL in the British Weekly.

"Their comedy is irresistible and all their pathos pure and moving. . . . An original humor and a very rare truthfulness are on them all, and nearly all have beauty and distinction."—Prof. G. A. SMITH in The Bookman.

"If any man can make his way through portions of 'Domsie,' 'The Transformation of Lachlan Campbell,' and 'A Doctor of the Old School' with the tranquil breath and unmoved countenance of one who reads his morning paper in the train, he is certainly one of two things—a monster of insensibility or a miracle of self-repression. . . . One thing is certain, that Ian Maclaren has made his mark."—The Daily Chronicle.

A Tale of Two Cities.

By CHARLES DICKENS. Illustrated. With more than 50 drawings and 8 full-page photogravures by Edmund H. Garrett. 2 vols., 16mo, gilt top, $3.50.

Mr. Garrett's illustrations have been pronounced the best work he has yet done. A combination of mechanical and artistic excellence makes this one of the most attractive books recently printed in America.

The Land of the Sphinx.

By G. MONTBARD, author of "Among the Moors," etc. With nearly 200 illustrations by the author. 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

Brilliant and graphic with both pen and pencil, Mr. Montbard has described Egyptian life and characterized its various phases and aspects with vivid power and picturesqueness.

MRS. OLIPHANT'S NEW NOVEL.

A House in Bloomsbury.

Second edition. $1.25.

"The best story she has written since 'Lady Jane.'"—The Athenaeum.

"Far above the fiction of the day."—The Speaker.

"Fresh and original."—St. James's Gazette.

Kitty Alone.

By S. BARING-GOULD. A novel of remarkable power and vigor. 12mo, $1.25.

Mists.

A New Novel. By FLETCHER BATTERSHALL, whose notable novel, "A Daughter of This World," published last fall, attracted an attention accorded to few stories. It is a delightfully romantic love-story, laid among the piquant scenes and characters of Bar Harbor. 12mo, $1.25.

SECOND EDITION.

The Empress Eugenie.

The initial volume of "The Secret of an Empire." By PIERRE DE LANO. From the Seventh French Edition. With portrait. 12mo, $1.25.

THIRD EDITION.

Samantha Among the Colored Folks

My Impressions of the Race Problem. By MARIETTA HOLLY (Josiah Allen's Wife). With nearly 100 illustrations by that master delineator of darkey life, E. W. Kemble. 12mo, $1.50.

Domestic Manners of the Americans

By Mrs. TROLLOPE. Reprinted from the first edition of 1832, now rare, with 24 illustrations from contemporary drawings. 2 vols., 12mo, $3.50.

At the Ghost Hour.

From the German of PAUL HEYSE. In four dainty little volumes, with decorations, etc. In unique binding, The House of the Unbelieving Thomas, Fair Abigail, Mid-day Magic, The Forest Laugh. Per set, $2.00; half calf, gilt tops, $5.00; full ooze calf, in box of same leather, $10.00.

The Early Public Life of Hon.

William Ewart Gladstone.

By A. F. ROBBINS. With portraits. $1.50.

So little is known of the early life of this remarkable statesman, that this record of his youth and parliamentary apprenticeship cannot fail to be of strong interest as well as of historic value and importance.

Where Honour Leads.

A sequel to her bright and winning story, "A Question of Honour." By LYNDE PALMER, author of "The Magnet Stories," etc. 16mo, $1.25.

First in the Field.

An engaging story of adventure in New South Wales. By GEORGE MANVILLE FENN. With illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

The Highway of Sorrow.
